TWO FIRES

Occur Within Few Minutes of Each Other.

Occupants of One of The Buildings Had Very Narrow Escape.

Two fires occurred in the city about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. The first was a house on Durrett Avenue, owned by Judge W. P. Winfree, and occupied by Mr. Ben Luckett. The building had its contents were destroyed. When the family awoke the room was full of smoke and the occupants had a very narrow escape. The building was partially covered by insurance and Mr. Luckett had a policy of $200 on his furniture. While the fire department was engaged at this fire another alarm was turned in from North Virginia street. This house belonged to Judge J. L. Dagg, of Louisiana, and was occupied by J. Greer, Jr. Mr. Greer was alone in the building. His baggage, together with nearly all of its contents were burned. Judge Dagg had $400 insurance on the building. It is not known how either fire originated.

QUITS IN DISGUST.

Judge Black Declines to Run for Governor.

Not in Common With Machine Politics, Such as Seems to Obtain in These Times.

Democrats of Kentucky: Several months ago I made known to many of you my intention to ask you to make me your party candidate for governor, to be voted for at the November, 1903, election. Since then conditions which I did not foresee have arisen and somewhat changed my plans as well as my wishes. This section of the State has recently been given a stimulus which presages the immediate and continuing development of its immense natural wealth. To a profession which I have followed for years, and which has not been to me ungenial, not entirely unremunerative, there have been, by reason of the conditions referred to, added—I may be pardoned for saying—increased opportunities and prospects to myself. The abandonment of these at this time, for the more, to say, ungenial and uncertain pursuit of politics, would be a sacrifice greater than I feel I should make. Because of these conditions and the additional fact that I had become disgusted with the methods of modern politics, I, more than two months ago, determined to announce to you my disqualification to enter any contest for the nomination. This fact I at this time made known to a few of my intimate friends and neighbors, I had determined to take this course before the State primary had been called, and when I believed a primary would not be called. There has not been a moment when I would have preferred a convention to a primary. I am not one of those who have been the beneficiaries of "dark lantern methods" in politics, or out of politics. I have never known or tried to learn, or engage in such questionable tactics. And the recent disparagement of these methods by some who may not have been entirely exempt from their employment in the past may, let us hope, furnish some evidence that the people demand, for the future, purer politics than they have been given in the past. I have always felt that if I was not the people's choice for any position I might seek, I would willingly submit. In a free government the decision of a majority should be accepted and acquiesced in by all. I have never doubted the plain people. But they, like myself, have never had much in common with machine politics, such as seem to obtain in these times.

Had I gone through a contest for the nomination I do not greatly doubt the result, if the untrammeled will of the plain people had been fairly recorded. But I have never believed my candidacy for the nomination for Governor would be fairly treated, whether in convention or primary. And this is not so much because of prejudice against me as an individual citizen and Democrat as antipathy against the people, including myself, in this section of the State, upon the part of certain elements of our population elsewhere. For many who are no better by nature or in practice than the people here have, in their own arrogance, already outlawed us. The Democrats of this section have never received recognition at the hands of the party elsewhere in the State except when we have with all our power been engaged in electing candidates who chanced to reside elsewhere. And, because of this outcastry, any Democrat here has a hard road to travel to reach independence by his party fellow in the State.

The past and the present alike prove that a Democrat in the Eleven Congressional district has even a poor chance to establish

Jerusalem at the Fair.

The greatest Exposition ever held will be the World's Fair at St. Louis in 1904. Every clime, every nation, every land will be there upon its part to make the Exposition a success. The Exposition will be the Ice-berged home of the aurora, the hardy mountaineers from the pinnacles of the Alps, the high priest from the mystic shrine of Buddha, the fierce Bedouin from the sun-baked sands of Sahara, all mingle in common. But the feature that will outshine all, will be the reproduction of the Holy City of Jerusalem, that historic spot that for nearly two thousand years has been the point of pilgrimage for the Christian, the Jew and the Mohammedan. That city whose rocks have been worn away and whose dust has been moistened by the tears of the penitent sinners, whose walls look on the Holy Sepulchre where the body of Christ lay, on glittering mosques where daily homage is paid to the memory of Mohammed, and on massive synagogues where Jehovah the God of Israel is worshipped by the descendants of Abraham.

In the heart of the exposition grounds, the very center of the magnificent expanse, on a plot of ground containing ten acres, will be reproduced the sacred city. No feature of interest will be omitted: the high wall surrounding the city, the historic gates of entrance, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the Mount of Olives, the Garden of Gethsemane, all will be reproduced. Natives in costume, the herds of sheep from Mount of Olives, asses and camels from the city of Jerusalem, will make one feel that he is really in Jerusalem.

Appreciating the great interest which this attraction will arouse, the directors of the exposition have granted to the Jerusalem Exhibit Company a site conceded by all to be the most advantageous concession that will be granted. Many will be prompted by sentiment to view this exhibit, and all should at once arrange to have a financial interest in this marvelous reproduction.

A very conservative estimate places the probable profit 150 per cent, or an equivalent of nearly 100 per cent month for the time you money will be in service.

This stock is being rapidly taken and will doubtless all be gone by the first of February, 1903. Write at once to this office or to the Jerusalem Exhibit Company, of St. Louis. Mentioning this paper, for further information. Subscriptions for said stock will be taken at the office of this paper and will be forwarded without cost to the subscriber.

Literary Development in the South.

The announcement of Sheltman & Company, publishers, Louisville, Ky., is another evidence of the widening growth of the new South, already developed along so many lines of industry. Southern writers have furnished a major part of the best fiction produced in this country for a generation or longer, but heretofore every book has been issued by a Northern or Eastern publisher.

Comes now a novel from the pen of a distinguished Kentuckian—no less a person than Hon. Charles W. Buck, formerly United States Minister to Peru—and from the press of a Southern publishing house, Messrs. Sheltman & Co., of Louisville, Ky.

"Under the Sun, or the Passing of the Incas," a story of Old Peru, is a love story of thrilling interest and extreme merit—exciting as a horse-race from start to finish, rich in color and dramatic situation, illustrated by an exquisite reproduction of Montero's celebrated painting, "The Funeral of the Last Inca." Printed and bound in the most approved style of the bookmaker's art, the work is at once a credit to Southern enterprise as the part of its publishers, and a wreath of laurel to its author as a worthy contribution to American literature. The book is generally have it for sale.

THE COUNTRY COUPLE.

One Side of an Argument Caught in the Crowd.

It was noon and a crowd was coming out of Glibble's. Among them there was a country couple, evidently lovers, and they had been doing some shopping together, as the numerous bundles under his arms testified.

She was very, very angry, while he, with a troubled look on his face, seemed to be endeavoring to make excuses in a tone of voice too low to be heard. The whole world might hear what she had to say, and she was glad to have it so. This is the way she began:

"I don't care! You're a horrid, mean thing, and I'll never go shopping with you again, never!"

"A humble and appealing look."

"As you could, too. You could just as well get it as not, you know you could!"

"Another humble, and an attempt to take hold of my arm."

"Leave go of my arm. You shan't take my arm."

"Silent grief on his part."

"I don't believe you care for me a bit."

"Some more mumping."

"You don't, either."

"His lips are seen to move."

"You don't show it much, anyway."

"He makes a hopeful attempt to be jovial."

"Now, you quit. If you don't leave go of my arm I'll slap you, hard as I can slap."

"He frowns and whispers to."

"Let 'em hear, I don't care."

"He whispers again."

"I don't care what they think. You're just as mean as you can be."

"A full ten seconds of mumbling on his part. He is evidently trying to 'square' himself."

"That's a story. You could have got it if you'd wanted to."

"Then they were lost in the crowd, and the argument, which sounded very much like talking into a telephone, was doubtless continued indefinitely."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

ECONOMICAL TRAFFIC.

The Movement of Iron Ore on the Great Lakes.

The vessels of the great lakes, says W. D. Hulbert, in Frank Leslie's Popular monthly, are probably the most economical beasts of burden that the world has ever seen. Both in cost of construction and in expenses of operation they are considerably cheaper than ocean ships, and the way they have slashed freight rates has been one of the greatest factors in the development of the lake region and the upper Mississippi valley. It costs only about one-fourth as much to ship a bushel of wheat from Chicago to Buffalo by boat as it does by rail, although the competing railways are among the best built and best equipped in the country, and do their prettiest to get their full share of the business. But the most important item in the lake commerce of the present day and the one in which the majority of the largest vessels are engaged is not the movement of grain, but the traffic in iron ore between Lake Superior and Lake Erie. More than 16,000,000 tons of ore passed through the May Lake Cut during the season of 1900, and 1901 will show a large increase over these figures. The prevailing rate during the greater part of the last season of navigation has been 70 cents from Marquette, and 80 from Duluth. This means that a ton is carried a mile for something less than a tenth of a cent. No railway in the world has ever attempted to carry 60,000,000 tons of ore per year a distance of 800 or 1,000 miles, and in the absence of experience it would be difficult to say what rates might be made if it became absolutely necessary to move the entire produce of the mines by rail. But the expense would certainly be several times as great as it is by water, and in all probability it would be practically prohibitory, for it would amount to nearly, if not quite, as much as the ore is now worth at the furnaces.

A Saying of Don Pedro's.

The bewildering complications in every part of South America recall anew the happy remark of the late emperor of Brazil during a European tour. While on an inspection of a celebrated factory, the workman in charge of some machinery exhibited its workings, and remarked proudly that it made a hundred revolutions a minute.

"What?" said Don Pedro, "more than a South American republic?" The next turn of the wheel was to make Brazil, too, a republic.—London Globe.

THAT DO STAIN

On the hands of a woman who had kept on thinking—"I ought to get better after a while." Now she knows the fight for life on and looks eagerly around for a cure.

There is a medicine whose marvelous record cures commends it at once to every sufferer from lung troubles as safe and sure.

Dr. Price's Golden Medical Discovery cures of emphysema, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, and bleeding lungs, emaciation, and diseases generally, which, if neglected or unskillfully treated, terminate fatally in consumption.

In the 'Lewiston Journal,' November 10th, 1901, printed in Lewiston, Maine, I find an advertisement of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I want to tell you what the 'Discovery' did for me years ago and what it is doing for me now. I was practically cured for one year. I took three bottles more with the same result, and lately I took three bottles more, making nine bottles in all. I has now been cured of my cough and I have not been troubled with spitting any more blood.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood, and lungs.

First! And supper yet to get for the night in the fields, and after supper washing the dishes, rolling up, and preparing for the morning, while the men sit around and rest and smoke. The question as to this tiredness is: How much of it is due to overdoing and how much of it is due to womanly weakness? The tiredness which comes from a hard day's work is compensated for by sound sleep, which "knits up the raveled sleeve of care." But when tiredness is only another name for weakness, sleep often refuses to bring its comfort, and the new day finds the weary woman still aching from the labors of yesterday.

Natural weariness is cured naturally by rest. The weariness which comes from womanly weakness is cured naturally by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"At the time I began taking your medicines I was very weak," writes Mrs. Bettie Payne, of India, Va. "I had a tired feeling all the time, could scarcely walk across my room, pains in head and stomach, and very bad taste in mouth on getting up in the morning, and also had uterine troubles. Four different physicians attended me, but only gave me temporary relief. I had almost given up, when one of your little pamphlets was handed to me. I sat down and read it carefully, and then wrote to you describing my ailments. You replied, advising a course of treatment with Dr. Pierce's medicines. I sent and got six bottles each of 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took each alternately, as advised. Before I had taken two doses of each I commenced feeling better. My heart and stomach felt relieved of their burdensome feeling. By the time I had finished with the two bottles I felt young as a girl of sixteen. I took five bottles of 'Prescription' and three of 'Discovery,' and nearly two vials of the 'Pleasant Pellets' for constipation. In conclusion I will say I had taken three or four kinds of patent medicine before trying your medicines, which made me feel worse than I did. Better, I think, than any 'Favorite Prescription' is the best medicine on earth for women."

Mrs. Payne's cure is one of thousands accomplished by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and the statements contained in her letter have their counterpart in the statements of the thousands of other women who have been cured by the same means. She was weak, had a tired feeling all the time, suffered from uterine trouble, etc. She was attended by four different physicians and received only temporary relief. Took three kinds of patent medicine and felt worse instead of better. Had almost given up in despair when she was led to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After using two bottles she felt "Young as a girl of sixteen." No wonder Mrs. Payne thinks that "Favorite Prescription" is the best medicine on earth for women. She has a right to think so; the right of a woman who finding no help in other physicians or medicines turned in despair to Dr. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription," and found a quick and complete cure. There is no guess-work about such commendations of this great medicine for women. It is the praise of women who are cured; weak women, tired women, suffering women, restored to perfect health and youthful vigor, by "Favorite Prescription."

"When I commenced the use of your medicines I was weak and tired most of the time," writes Mrs. S. L. Tupper, of Sheboygan Falls, Wis. "After taking six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and six of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I felt like a different person, and was able to do my work without knowing what it was to feel tired. My complexion was also greatly benefited."

There's a point in Mrs. Tupper's letter every woman will appreciate. Sick-ness which undermines the strength, plays havoc with her cheeks. It is reasonable to suppose that when "Favorite Prescription" restores the health it should also restore the appearance of the face. It does. It rounds out the hollows in the cheeks, restores lost flesh and makes the skin clear and wholesome.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is commended to women as a safe and reliable preparation for the cure of womanly ills. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It is the best tonic and nervine for weak, run-down women, tranquilizing the nerves, encouraging the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All letters are treated as strictly private, and sacredly confidential. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

By Linda Richmond.

The weather certainly was queer for the last day of December. The sun shone brightly down on leafless trees and brown fields, and a fresh warm breeze blew from the south making it like a day in late September. The wide expanse of meadows and wheat fields stretching away back of the down farm-houses that composed the tiny village, seemed to be looking in the mellow, hazy sunlight that covered the whole landscape as with a garment. With a sigh Miss Julia Hunt hung the yellow almanac behind the abiding store in the kitchen, where yellow almanacs had hung for more than fifty years, and then went to the dining room to pack away her precious china and ornaments.

"There's one thing," she said to Mary Finnegan, the maid of all work, "those boys are not going into the parlor. I'll lock the door to-night and not open it till they are gone. I'm not going to have my mother's furniture scratched and spotted by a lot of city boys. It was very foolish of me to promise Louise that I would entertain part of her mission class of new boys and bootblacks, but she begged so hard that I couldn't help it. She says one day in the country is like a glimpse of Heaven to those half-starved little creatures, but I'm afraid it will not be like a glimpse of Heaven for us. I had planned to have Mike take them to a long sleighride in the bob sled, but here the weather must turn as warm as May and spoil my plans. If we get through the morning we shall be all right, for I have tickets for the entertainment at the school-house to-morrow."

Mrs. Finnegan, who had by consent been chosen umpire, to Miss Hunt's big pasture field, and said, "Hilly gee! Ain't that a bully place for a game?"

Miss Hunt was shocked at the language, but hope rose in her heart. It might be possible that the exquisite, cloudless weather favored her after all. She looked at the thin clothing of her guests, and rejoiced that the yellow almanac had truly predicted "fair and warmer" for this New Year's day.

"I say, missus, is it any boys round here? I mean, Jimmie, he can't play an' we'd like to strike some kids for a match game," said one of the boys eagerly.

"Certainly, there are boys in the village. If you go out and start a game, I guess it won't be long till they will all be with you," said Miss Hunt, who had very little acquaintance with boys, but had noticed that they were not long in finding out if anything new was going on.

Before the location of the bases had been settled, three recruits joined the ranks and were soon offering to hunt up enough more for the match game.

"Dear me, Mary," lamented Miss Hunt, as a new difficulty stared her in the face, "I was just going to run out with the cookies and some apples for the boys, but there are ten or twelve extra ones playing with them. They must be hungry after their long ride this morning, but what can I do?"

"Burr an' I'd run to Mrs. Brown's and get the batch she made yesterday. Her Mollie said their company couldn't come to-day."

"The very thing!" And with a load of her mind Miss Julia hastened across the street.

"Sell them! I guess not," Mr. Joe and Ned were screaming out there as loud as the rest. You may have them all, and these pies, too, for Sister Jane can't come to-day. I'll help you carry them to the pasture field," said Mrs. Brown.

"Two minutes for refreshments," yelled Lame Jimmie, who had by consent been chosen umpire, to Miss Hunt's big pasture field, and said, "Hilly gee! Ain't that a bully place for a game?"

Kentucky at the Fair.

The World's Fair movement in Kentucky has gone far enough to assure every one connected with the Kentucky Exhibit Association of its ultimate success. Little attempt was made during November and December to collect money. Instead a perfect organization was formed with a view to stirring up things early in 1903. The different Sub-Committees, which are to solicit the larger interests of the State, such as distillers and liquor dealers, lumber firms and corporations, oil companies, live stock breeders and dealers, banks, coal companies, manufacturers, miscellaneous firms and corporations, etc., have taken advantage of the holiday season to prepare letters with subscription blanks as enclosures, and during January the state will be flooded with them.

Let me see. Ten boys are coming.

There will be plenty for each of us here three or four for lunch. Louise said such stress on having plenty to eat that I am glad you baked too many rather than not enough. You said not make the tart if we have milk and pumpkin pie."

"How do you do?" said a brisk voice at the open door. I just stopped to tell you that the entertainment for to-morrow is all off. Two of the Gray children are down with the measles, and as they had the leading parts, it can't be given. I am around refunding money to the people who bought tickets."

"Troubles never come singly," observed Miss Julia as she exchanged eleven bits of pasteboard for a handful of small coins. Mary I'll be back in half an hour. I'm going to the store for some candy, and on the way back I'll stop for the apple tart. This house will look as if a whirlwind had struck it by to-morrow night, but it can't be helped, I suppose. I'll have more sense next time," she added grimly.

As the train stopped at the little station the next morning, ten boys ranging from ten to fifteen years, were met by Miss Julia and escorted home much as if she were in charge of a lot of many Indians. They were armed with balls and bats, and before they were half way to the house, one of them pointed to the afternoon, and they return on the six o'clock train. Louise said all that was necessary was to feed them well, and I would have no trouble."

"Maybe it will snow yet," said Mary, examining the little house out of which an old man was said to appear in case a storm was brewing. But the smiling little old lady was on guard, and that is a sure sign of fair weather.

"No snob lock," exclaimed the mistress. "The almanac says 'fair and warmer' to-morrow. Do you think you will have time to hunt up the checker board and dominoes in the attic, Mary?"

"Sure an' I'll do that as soon as this bird is stuffed."

If I thought they wouldn't break it, I'd run over to Mrs. Brown's and borrow the boys' magic lantern. I could darken the sitting room and show off the pictures, but perhaps I'd better not risk it. How many ginger cookies did you bake this morning?"

"Four dozen," replied Mary promptly. "Let me see. Ten boys are coming. There will be plenty for each of us here three or four for lunch. Louise said such stress on having plenty to eat that I am glad you baked too many rather than not enough. You said not make the tart if we have milk and pumpkin pie."

The Commoner.

The Commoner, Mr. Bryan's paper, will be especially interesting and instructive during the present session of congress. The action of this congress will probably determine the issues upon which the next presidential campaign will be fought. The Commoner proposes to carry on a campaign of education and organization to the end that Democratic principles may triumph.

In addition to the editorial department, which receives Mr. Bryan's personal attention, The Commoner contains a Current Topics department, wherein a non-partisan discussion of topics of timely interest and other valuable information will be found. The Home Department is conducted by an experienced woman who is widely known as a writer of household topics and who is an authority on the art of cooking in all that the term implies.

The Commoner alone is worth the subscription price. The other departments of the paper are all interesting and ably conducted, among which is a summary of the world's news told in narrative style, and Mr. Maupio's department—whether common or not—contains original anecdotes and wit, moral lessons in homely phrase and verse, and appeals to old and young alike.

The Commoner is a whole in clean, entertaining and instructive, and its rapid increase in circulation—now amounting to 140,000—is proof of the paper's strength and influence.

Arrangements have been made with Mr. Bryan whereby The Commoner can be supplied at a very low rate with the Kentuckian, both papers for one year for $2.75. This offer applies to both new and renewal subscriptions, and should be taken advantage of without delay. All orders should be sent to the Kentucky office.

INFERIOR CORN.

Causing Death of Stock in This Section.

A number of cases of blind staggers among horses and mules, supposed to be caused from eating rotten corn, is reported in this section. John Goe, col. of Church Hill, lost two good horses a few days ago. Mr. Hiram Felcher, of near Fairview, lost three mules, and Mr. Jan Brown, of the same neighborhood, had one horse to die of the disease. Other farmers have lost from one to four head within the past few days.

This year's corn crop is said to be of an unusually inferior quality and much of it is unfit for use at all.

Dr. T. T. Eaton says Dr. Compton as a preacher is safe, sound, strong, stirring, simple, sensible, majestic and powerful, and that the meeting just closed in the Walnut Street Baptist church, Louisville, is the finest which they have had for years. Dr. Compton preached three weeks in the new building, the handsomest of any denomination in the South. At times two thousand people, the pick of Louisville, attended the meetings to hear Dr. Compton's great revival sermons. As Well as the Housewife and Professional Women Endorse Pe-ru-na as a Specific for Winter Diseases.

MISS BLANCHE MYERS.

A SOCIETY LADY'S LETTER.

Miss Blanche Myers, 3123 Penn street, Kansas City, Mo., a prominent young society woman of that place, has the following to say of Peru-na:

"During each of the past four seasons I have caught a severe cold, when suddenly chilled after an evening party, and catarrh for several weeks would be the result. One bottle of Peru-na cured me, and I shall not dread colds any more as I did!"—BLANCHE MYERS.

HOME TREATMENT FREE.

Catarrh Cures by Thousands Under

Dr. Hartman's Free Treatment.

Catarrh of the nose and head produces discharge from the nose, sneezing, and pain in the eyes and forehead, weak, and sometimes watery eyes, and occasional loss of memory.

Unless something is done to prevent the catarrh will follow the mucous membrane into the lungs where it will be followed by cough, night sweats, rapid loss of flesh, and the other dread symptoms of consumption.

To all such people Dr. Hartman's

Peru-na can be bought at each and every drug store, and is only necessary to send name and address to

Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O., and complete directions for the first month's treatment will be sent free.

Not only is it more successful in curing catarrh than the treatment of ear-nar specialists, but it is in the reach of every person in this land.

A medicine which is the principal part of Dr. Hartman's treatment, known as Peru-na, can be bought at any drug store, and is a remedy without equal for catarrh in all forms, coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption, and all climatic diseases of winter. Each bottle is accompanied with complete directions for use.

Address The Peru-na Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, for a copy of their latest catarrh book, instructively illustrated, and contains 64 pages of the latest information on catarrhal diseases. Sent free to any address.

A Housewife Who Suffered 25 Years.

Mrs. Allie Schwanitz, Sanborn, Minn.,

writes:

"I have been troubled with catarrh for twenty-five years. Could not sleep day or night. After having used Peru-na

I can sleep and nothing bothers me

now."—Mrs. Allie Schwanitz.

Mrs. Jennie Cable, Spokane, Wash.,

writes:

"After suffering for twenty-one years with neuralgia, caused by catarrh of head, I tried all doctors and all kinds of medicine, resulting no benefit. I became discouraged and worn out at last.

My mother wrote me to take Dr. Hartman's medicine, so I did, but my case was a chronic one, and I was also in the change of life. Through the use of Peru-na and Mannin I am now entirely well.

"When I began taking your medicine

I only weighed 60 pounds; now I weigh

110. I have not taken a drop of medicine for seven months, and would advise all sufferers to consult Dr. Hartman. The medicine acted upon my head and eyes, and for the last year seemed to be in my brain and between my shoulder blades."

—Mrs. Jennie Cable.

"If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peru-na,

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN

To Carriers and Dweller on Rural Routes.

The following very important instructions have been issued by the Postmaster General's office which affect the rural free delivery service:

1. The department looks to the patrons of the rural free delivery service, who are receiving the benefits of the service, to use their utmost personal endeavors, and also to exert their influence with the road supervisors, or with those officials who are responsible for the condition of the highways, to the end that the roads traveled by the rural carriers may be always kept open and in such passable shape that the service can be regularly and punctually performed.
2. Should the regularity of the service be needlessly destroyed as the result of inattention and lack of care bestowed on the highways, the permanent withdrawal of the delivery will very likely result.
3. Rural letter carriers are required to serve their routes regularly at all seasons of the year and in every kind of weather when it can be done without seriously impairing their lives or endangering their conveyances or the United States mail, which is in their custody.
4. Patrons should clear away any impediments, so that carriers can drive up and reach their boxes from their vehicles without dismounting.
5. Rural carriers are expected to energetically try to serve their routes even though the conditions may be extremely adverse, and any undue lack of zeal on their part should be promptly brought to the attention of this office for such action as the merits of the case require.

Christmas Holidays.

Now that the holidays are over and have abused your digestive organs until they are on the point of rebellion, the proper thing to do is to get back into working condition as speedily as possible. "A stitch in time saves nine" is an old saw but it is a great truth in homely dress and applies with greatest force to the human body. A little trifling ailment which was not considered worthy of a second thought has in countless instances cost a life. A "stitch in time" would have saved much suffering and distress to the victim and his family. Those who have to fight the battle of life, the wage earners, must at once get in shape for another year's work. If they start out with an ailing body, be it ever so trifling, they cannot do their best and if no attention is paid to the trouble, it soon becomes severe, entailing loss of time and money or worse. Prudent persons will get rid of the disorder as speedily as possible. A few doses of Prickly Ash Bitters will do this work. It will cleanse and strengthen the digestive organs, empty and purify the bowels, regulate the whole system and impart a feeling of strength and energy that will make work a pleasure. It is good for the whole family. Children who are puny, sickly or who have eaten too freely of sweet stuff will immediately improve under its beneficial effect. For ladies, particularly those subject to headache, indigestion, constipation or the ailments peculiar to their sex, it is of the greatest value as it purifies the system thoroughly, tones up the organs, clears the complexion and promotes good appetite, vigor and cheerfulness.

PHELPS COWAN

Winning Unstinted Praise as a Musician.

Phelps Cowan, a Hopkinsville boy now living in Joliet, Ill., is developing remarkable talent as a musician. A Joliet exchange gives this notice of one of his concerts: "At the Central Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Master Phelps Cowan, one of Joliet's young and very talented musicians, gave an organ recital of exceptional merit. This young man, who is but 15 years of age, displays ability and talent, conception and interpretation, that is really quite remarkable, and, which if he continues in his chosen profession, is bound to make a name for himself in the world of music."

His playing yesterday afternoon was splendid. It is so clean and accurate, and his registration was most carefully performed, showing his appreciation of the fact that his work must be clean to be enjoyed.

There was a splendid audience present to hear him, despite the heat and threatening weather, and all thoroughly enjoyed the mastery way in which he handled the numbers on his program.

For the past few months he has been under the instruction of Miss S. Ellen Barnes, teacher of piano, in the Joliet branch of the Kelso school, and she, seeing his talent for the organ, encouraged it, and although not a teacher of the organ, but understanding it quite well, took him under her charge, and his work yesterday showed how well she succeeded.

He was assisted by Edgar B. Gordon, teacher of the violin in the Kelso school of Chicago, and his work was most thoroughly enjoyed.

At the reaper service we had the pleasure of hearing John E. McWade, of Chicago, who sang the offertory solo in a most pleasing manner. He has a most pleasing baritone voice of much sweetness and purity, and handles it to perfection. It was through the efforts of Miss Barnes that we had the pleasure of hearing both of these assistants to the young organist for whom we predict great things.

The program:

- Entrée de Procession.....Batiste
- Offertory in F.....Read
- Master Phelps Cowan.
- Violin solo, Ave Maria.....Gounod
- Edgar B. Gordon.
- Offertoire, Op. 8.....Salome
- Berceuse.....Spinyer
- Triumphal March in D.....Buck
- Master Phelps Cowan.

McCure's

For January.

Adolf Lorenz, "the great Austrian surgeon with soft, strong hand," is the subject of a very welcome paper by John Swain in the January McCure's. It is a story that will be read by many thankful parents, rich and poor, the country over—the story of the great-hearted benefactor of little children, who began life as a poor farmer lad. There is an excellent explanation of Dr. Lorenz's famous operation, and of just how he performs it, with the aid only of his own mighty strength, when other surgeons have to rely on specially devised apparatuses.
